SECTION I – INTRODUCTION

To those who receive this handbook when joining Staff Resources, Incorporated, a sincere welcome! We are delighted you have joined our organization

To those who have been with us for some time upon receipt of this handbook, permit us to take this time to thank you for your past cooperation, service to the Company and its customers, and your contribution to our growth. We are grateful for your contribution to our mutual success.

Each of you, newcomer or veteran, will find this handbook helpful. It describes the benefits to which you may be entitled, the Company's policies and procedures and some of our expectations and rules of conduct.

B. PREAMBLE

- These personnel policies and procedures supersede any and all other verbal representations, promises, understandings, handbooks, contrary written materials, and/or personnel policies previously issued by Staff Resources, Incorporated.
- Decisions concerning the interpretation and administration of the handbook terms, Company policies, and any administration or qualification for benefits described in this handbook or in other written descriptions of benefits are subject to the sole discretion of the management of SRI, and ultimately, the President of the Company.
- Staff Resources, Inc. reserves the right to amend, modify or change its policies at any time and without advance notice to its employees. Any revisions to this handbook will be tracked and posted on the Intranet.
- This Employee Handbook is not to be considered or construed to be a contract of employment.<sup>1</sup> No obligation may be imposed upon the Company in contradiction of or addition to the terms of this handbook (or subsequent written handbook amendments or official written notices of handbook changes) unless the same is expressly set forth in writing directed to an employee directly by the President of the Company.

<sup>1</sup> SRI is in the “contract staffing” business of providing personnel (generally referred to as “contract employees”) to business and industry. To avoid confusion, the term “contract” refers to the customer’s contract with SRI. The customer obtains personnel by issuing a purchase order or “contract” to SRI. SRI takes this opportunity to clarify that the industry term does not infer a contractual employment relationship between SRI and its employees.

C. EMPLOYMENT CLASSIFICATION

Staff Resources, Inc. provides contract personnel to business and industry across the Country. Employment classifications are distinguished in a variety of ways.

1. “Contract Staff” employees are those serving a customer pursuant to a contract or purchase order between SRI and the customer, generally at the customer’s facilities. Contract staff employees are hired on a project-by project basis, and employment is contingent upon the availability of assignments for which the employee is qualified, as ultimately determined by the customer.
2. “Direct Staff” employees are those who serve SRI’s core operations, and who generally, perform their services in SRI’s offices and facilities. Direct Staff employees may be subject to differing perquisite benefits and procedures, as indicated herein or in supplemental materials provided with this handbook.

Federal law distinguishes between employees on the basis of the nature of their duties and the way they are paid:

1. “Exempt Employee”- An Exempt Employee is an executive, administrative, professional or outside sales employee who is exempt from overtime laws under the Fair Labor Standards Act. The compensation of an exempt employee is not based on the number of hours worked. They are paid on a salary and/or commission basis.
2. “Non-Exempt Employee” - Non-Exempt Employees are paid on an hourly basis and their job responsibilities do not generally fall within the executive, administrative, professional or sales duties. Non-Exempt Employees are compensated for any approved overtime hours worked.

EMPLOYMENT STATUS

1. Temporary Full-Time Employee - An employee hired for a specific period of time, for a specific assignment or project or to fulfill certain client requests. Because of the nature of customers’ needs and the flexibility offered by the contract staffing industry in general, contract staff positions are generally classified as Temporary Full Time. SRI offers a compensation and benefit package to Temporary Full-time Employees, including Health and Life Insurance. These plans contain their own requirements. Summary Plan Descriptions and pamphlets, which have been provided to you and which are available from the Human Resources Manager, describe some of these benefits.
2. Regular Full-Time Employee - An employee hired for a position that is anticipated to continue for the foreseeable future or to meet a continuing need, rather than a temporary assignment or work dictated by a customer’s operations. For example, Direct Staff positions generally involve Regular Full-Time status. This category Includes management and administrative support personnel. Along with our compensation package, Staff Resources, Inc. offers to its full-time Employees Health and Life insurance protection. These plans contain their own requirements. Summary Plan Descriptions and pamphlets, which have been provided to you and which are available from the Human Resources Manager, describe some of these benefits.
3. Part-Time Employee - An employee generally scheduled to work less than 30 hours per week does not receive additional fringe benefits. A part-time employee does not automatically become a full-time employee if he or she occasionally works 30 hours or more. Rather, position re-classifications can only occur after management’s consideration of the position, the likely future need for services, and the available funding.

4. Occasional Employees- When needed, the Company may elect to retain occasional employees for a short term duration or a special project. Occasional Employees may be full time or part time, exempt or non-exempt. Occasional Employees do not receive benefits, even if employed on a full time basis.

SECTION II - EMPLOYMENT BENEFITS

It is the responsibility of each employee to inform the human resources department whenever a birth, adoption, marriage, divorce, death, or other event has occurred that may require a modification in your coverage or of any other changes in family status within fifteen (15) days of the event. Staff Resources, Inc. will not be responsible for any lapse in coverage or "ineligible" status that occurs due to an employee's failure to report a change in status.

SECTION III - PERSONNEL POLICIES

A. WORK WEEK

Our basic work week is 40 hours, Monday through Friday. Breaks for employees on assignment will be in accordance with each client's standard policy.

Your specific work hours as a contract employee will be established by the client company. It is the responsibility of each employee to perform their given duties within the required time frame allotted for each task as defined by the client.

B. EMPLOYEE ATTENDANCE

Each employee is responsible for being present every workday at the correct time as determined by his or her supervisor.

- The employee must obtain prior approval from their immediate client supervisor and SRI Representative whenever a necessary absence from work is contemplated.
- When an unexpected absence or tardiness arises because of illness or emergency, the employee must notify the client supervisor and SRI contact by telephone prior to the scheduled shift, or as soon as reasonably possible.
- For absences of three (3) consecutive days or more due to illness, a physician's slip is required to be provided, unless leave is taken pursuant to the Family and Medical Leave Act, as described later in this handbook. The Company may require documentation from other employees when deemed necessary.
- Employees in need of accommodation or leave for a covered disability under the ADA or comparable state provisions should contact the Human Resources Manager at SRI's headquarters.

Failure to contact the company in the event of absence can lead to disciplinary action. If an employee is absent for three consecutive days without contacting the Company in the manner provided, SRI will consider the employee to have voluntarily resigned employment.

C. LEAVING THE OFFICE

All employees must sign out with the appropriate client staff member when leaving the office during the work day.

When you are absent for jury duty or attendance as a witness, you will be paid your regular salary less the amount you receive in jury or witness fees for a maximum of one (1) eight (8) hour day. Also, it is expected you will come to work if you are released early from court.

E. TIMESHEETS

All Employees are expected to complete a weekly timesheet and provide as much daily detail as possible. This allows us to accurately invoice for all services rendered while assisting us in the evaluation of future project estimates.

1. Please round off to the nearest half hour.
2. Timesheets are to be submitted by each contract staff employee no later than 10:00 AM (ET) every Monday.
3. Timesheets are submitted through Vision, an internet-based program accessible through your computer or mobile device. If you are having issues submitting your weekly timesheet you may also fax, e-mail, or call in your hours.
4. Reporting false hours worked may lead to discipline up to and including immediate dismissal.

F. PAYROLL

Payday is every other Friday for the period ending the previous Sunday. The pay period is from Monday to Sunday for the purpose of completing the weekly timesheet.

All approved expense reports submitted to SRI for payment shall be paid every payday.

Deductions - Every paycheck is subject to certain deductions, all of which are listed separately on your paycheck stub.

Some deductions are required by law, i.e., withholding for Federal, State and City income taxes, and for Social Security Taxes (FICA), court ordered garnishments and child support. If you have any questions about the amount deducted from your pay, contact the Human Resources Manager.

- Other special deductions authorized by you.

G. EXPENSE REPORTS

All completed expense reports must be submitted to accounting by 10:00 AM (ET) on Monday. Expenses are paid every 2 weeks with payroll.

H. CHANGES IN PERSONAL STATUS

To insure the benefits to which you are entitled and that your tax records are current, you need to notify the administrative department of any changes in your personal status. You should keep your personnel record current and accurate by reporting any changes in your name, address, telephone number, marital status, number of dependents, and the person to notify in case of an emergency.

It is the responsibility of each employee to inform the Human Resources department of any changes in family status within fifteen (15) days. Staff Resources, Inc. will not be responsible for any lapse in coverage or "ineligible" status that occurs due to an employee's failure to report a change in status.

I. UNPAID LEAVE OF ABSENCE

Leaves of absence may be granted only with the written approval of your direct supervisor and a Corporate Officer and may also be subject to certain qualifying criteria.

Employees on any leave of absence may not operate a business or work at another job, without the express, written permission of the Company. Failure to return from leave on the agreed day may result in the termination of employment.

Leaves of absence are without pay and benefits and classified as:

1. Special Leave

Personal leaves of absence or emergencies of up to thirty (30) days may be granted dependent upon the employee's length of service, employment record and business conditions at the time. Leaves must be mutually agreed upon between the employee, and a Corporate Officer, including all terms and conditions, and must be set forth in writing. This type of leave is without pay. No benefits will be accrued during a personal leave of absence.

2. Medical Leave

Employees requiring leave for a serious health condition should see the next section on Family and Medical leave of absence. Those employees who are not covered by the FMLA, but who require leave without pay for sickness, injury, pregnancy or pregnancy-related conditions may be granted leave for a period up to thirty (30) days, unless granting leave would pose an undue hardship to SRI. Such leave may be extended for one or more additional thirty (30) day periods or portions thereof in the discretion of the Company.

- Generally, proof of disability will be required before leave is granted. SRI reserves the right to require a medical examination by a physician of its choice to verify the need for leave.
- Employees will be required to furnish a physician's statement that the employee is able to perform the essential functions of the job, with or without accommodation, upon conclusion of leave.
- Employees requiring accommodation for a covered disability under the Americans Disability Act should direct their request for accommodation to the Human Resources Manager.

J. FAMILY AND MEDICAL LEAVE OF ABSENCE

Family and Medical Leave of Absence - To be eligible for family and medical leave of absence, employee must:

- Have worked for the employer for a total of at least 12 months AND
- Have worked at least 1,250 hours over the previous 12 months for the employer.

FMLA leave may be granted for any one of the following reasons:

- Birth of employee's child or care of employee's child.
- Care for employee's child placed for adoption or foster care.
- Care for an immediate family member (spouse, child or parent with a serious health condition).
- Medical leave when an employee is unable to work because of a serious non- work related health condition.
- Medical leave for an employee who is the spouse, son, daughter, parent or next of kin of a "covered service member" in order to care for the covered service member who has a serious injury or illness. The term "covered service member" means a member of the United State Armed Forces (including a member of the National Guard or Reserves) who is undergoing medical treatment, recuperation or therapy, is otherwise in out-patient status or is otherwise on the temporary disability retired list, for a serious injury or illness.
- Medical leave for a "qualifying exigency" arising due to the fact the employee's spouse, child or parent is on active duty, or has been called to active duty, in the United States Armed Forces in support of a contingency operation. The term "qualifying exigency" and "contingency operation" shall have the definitions established by the United States Department of Labor, both of which are under consideration at the time this policy has been adopted by the employer.

Staff Resources, Inc. reserves the right to obtain a second medical opinion at its own expense to determine whether and to what extent a serious health condition exists. When a conflict exists between the employee's certification and the second opinion, a third health care provider, jointly agreed to by SRI and the employee, and paid for by SRI will have the final say whether a serious health condition exists.

Foreseeable Leave - Including the birth, adoption, placement of a foster child or planned medical treatment, a minimum of thirty (30) days advance notice must be provided to SRI unless absolutely not practical. Failure to provide SRI with sufficient information may result in a delay or loss of leave benefits and/or coverage.

- Medical certification from your health care provider must be furnished by the employee at the time of the leave request if the leave is foreseeable and will exceed three (3) days due to the serious health condition of the employee or of a family member.

Unforeseeable Leave - Medical certification must be provided within 15 days of SRI's request for certification. All medical certifications must state the approximate date the serious health condition began, the probable duration of the serious health condition, the appropriate medical facts known to the health care provider concerning the serious health condition; that the employee cannot perform the work required of the job with or without an accommodation as provided by law and when care is for a family member, the need to have the employee assist in that care and the estimated duration of that need.

Intermittent/Reduced Leave - SRI, in its sole discretion, may temporarily transfer an employee seeking an intermittent or reduced leave due to a medical necessity to any equivalent alternative position that better accommodates the requested intermittent or reduced leave provided that he/she is qualified for the alternative position.

K. RETURN TO WORK

- For any leave exceeding three (3) days, employees must submit a written release from his/her treating physician before returning to work which indicates the employee can perform the essential functions of his/her job with or without an accommodation as provided by law.
- During the leave, SRI may require periodic reports from the employee's treating physician updating the Company on the status of the employee's health and may require periodic reports from the employee on his/her intent to return to work.

Position Reinstatement and Benefit Coverage During Absence

Staff Resources, Inc. is not required to hold an employee's position open if he/she has been on inactive status for more than twelve (12) weeks unless otherwise provided by law. Employees who do return to work during or at the conclusion of the twelve (12) week period shall be reinstated to the same or an equivalent position, assuming employment would have continued if the employee had remained on active duty.

All benefits for which the employee is otherwise eligible shall continue during the approved family or medical leave of absence. Benefit plans will not continue during non-FMLA leave and the leave period is not counted as service time.

The employee portion of the costs of continued benefits shall be reimbursed to the Company and are due on the same schedule as if the employee was working full time. In addition, time missed for an approved leave shall be considered working time for purposes of calculating an employee's eligibility for any Company offered employee benefits.

An employee who fails to return to work upon the completion of a family or medical leave will be required to reimburse SRI for the employer portion of monies expended incident to the purchase of health care benefits unless the employee does not return because of a continuation, recurrence, or onset of a serious health condition which would entitle the employee to a leave or other circumstances beyond the control of the employee.

SRI may deny restoration to a former position to highly compensated employees where the denial is necessary to prevent substantial and grievous economic injury to the Company's operations.

L. PAID MEDICAL LEAVE OF ABSENCE

According to the Paid Medical Leave Act employees of Staff Resources, Inc. are eligible for unpaid time off only. Please see Family Medical Leave of Absence (H). If you have any questions regarding eligibility, please refer to the Michigan Legislature website at www.legislature.mi.gov or contact HR.

O. COMPLAINT PROCEDURE

Any employee of the company who believes he or she has been the subject of any harassment, including sexual harassment, should report the matter to the Company at the earliest possible opportunity. Employees have a variety of ways to report harassment: Reports of harassment may be made in writing (the preferred method), in direct verbal communications with SRI management, telephonically or by e-mail. One may report the harassment to his or her immediate SRI supervisor if he or she wishes. Alternatively, the employee may contact the Human Resources Manager at (248) 489-4300 Ext. 2649, or may make direct contact with any senior member of management. Employees may e-mail reports to DSI-HR@dsidsc.com

Employees working at customer locations will likely find that the customer's human resources or personnel department will accept harassment complaints with regard to the customer's personnel. However, if you elect to use a customer's procedures, we request and require that you simultaneously notify us via one of the methods above, so that we may assist in the process.

Upon a complaint, the company will immediately commence an investigation, which will include contact with you, the person against whom the complaint is made and others who may know relevant facts. ## SECTION III – CONFIDENTIALITY AND PRIVACY POLICIES

A. COMPUTERS, E-MAIL AND INTERNET POLICY

The Company's (or client's) computer system provides employees with access to the Internet and an electronic communications system (e-mail). Access to these systems is intended to enhance the Company's (or client's) business and is considered a valuable Company asset. Access to these systems can however, create certain liabilities; so it is necessary to establish some important guidelines. The Internet and e-mail are to be used by authorized individuals only and are intended for business purposes. All information generated, uploaded, downloaded, transmitted, received, and/or stored, to/from the system is considered the property of the Company and no employee shall have any confidentiality in the information at any time regardless of content. The system includes various reporting methods that details the work generated and the content thereof.

Authorized users may only use the Internet and the Company's e-mail system for personal use during lunchtime, which is intended to be personal time. However, even personal use of the Internet and/or e-mail system may be monitored, accessed, audited and/or copied by the Company. Do not assume that an erased message cannot be retrieved. The Company's right to monitor and copy extends to all use of the Internet and/or e-mail system, including but not limited to, monitoring sites visited on the Internet, monitoring chat groups and newsgroups, monitoring information downloaded or uploaded by users of the Internet and monitoring e-mail sent and/or received by users. Employees expressly consent to the Company's right to monitor and copy this information by continuing their employment with the Company. Employees who engage in non-work related communications during their lunch hour do so at their own risk, as such activities are not within the scope of their employment at the Company. (Needless to say, this also applies to any prohibited non-work related communications during work hours.) This means if you engage in a non-work related communication that leads to a claim or liability, the Company will neither defend nor indemnify you against a recovery or the cost of defense. In addition, by your signature acknowledging receipt of this policy handbook, you acknowledge and agree you will indemnify the Company for any loss or claim, including the cost of defense, incurred by the Company as a result of any non-work related communication.

To avoid corruption or pollution of the Company's software and system and to avoid dedication of our system to non-work related matters, authorized individuals are prohibited from installing or downloading software or programs without the express, advance permission of the office manager. Programs downloaded from external sources may contain viruses that could destroy or impair the Company's programs and systems. External programs may be incompatible with the system or a business environment. For example, computer games are strictly forbidden, their installation will not be authorized, and employees may not use their terminals to play computer games.

Under no circumstances (whether during work hours or the lunch hour) is any person permitted to access, download, upload, transmit, print, e-mail or otherwise create or disseminate information of a racial, sexual, sexist, or obscene nature, or which is derogatory to another person or group, including but not limited to information based upon a person or group's race, sex, sexual orientation, ethnicity, national origin, disability, height, weight, marital status, pregnancy, veteran status, or other protected classification. Under no circumstances may any person access pornography or a source of information that is primarily sexual in nature. Nor may any person transmit, print, e-mail, or otherwise create or disseminate information that is defamatory, insulting or critical to another, which discloses private or embarrassing facts, or which may be reasonably be perceived as making an expressed or implied threat to another, which harasses another person, or which continues communication after another person has requested that communications cease.

All passwords must be disclosed to the Company or they are invalid and cannot be used. Employees are not permitted to access files or retrieve any stored information of others unless they have received the other person's permission or authorization from the Company. However, the Company reserves the right to access all such information. Employees are also prohibited from using passwords other than their own to gain access to other employee's files or e-mail messages.

Because the Internet is a public form of communication, client and/or Company confidences may be lost when communication is sent over the Internet. Therefore, authorization from the information owner is required prior to the transfer over the Internet and/or via e-mail.

Copyrighted materials belonging to others may not be transmitted. Virtually all written and recorded materials are protected by copyright without the need for the traditional copyright notice. All employees obtaining access to other companies' or individuals' materials must respect all copyrights and may not copy, retrieve, modify, or forward copyrighted materials, except with the information owner's express permission and/or pursuant to the Company's licensing agreements.

Employees may not use the Company's system to gain unauthorized access to other companies' or individuals' private computer systems. Any such activities that can be considered "hacking" will be reported to the proper authorities.

Violation of this policy and/or any identified abuse of the Internet and/or e-mail system may result in the loss of Internet and/or e-mail privileges, together with disciplinary action up to and including discharge. Examples of abuse include but are not limited to, any use which would create liability for the Company, excessive use, unauthorized downloading, personal use during business hours, use of an embarrassing, insulting, disruptive, and/or threatening nature, use in violation of law, unwelcome propositions, ethnic or racial slurs or other messages that can be construed as discrimination, harassment or disparagement of others based upon their race, color, religion, sex, national origin, age, marital status, handicap, veteran status, familial status, height, weight or other characteristic, consistent with applicable law.
